Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 06 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Rather cold, with sunshine and showers, and night frost.

Today:
Rain and hill snow for north Scotland sinking south and turning more showery: possible heavy but some sunny intervals. Further south, sunny spells and scattered showers. Feeling chilly.

Tonight:
Further showers and more persistent cloud in parts of central Britain, wintry on hills. Showers tending to become confined to coasts elsewhere with clear periods developing giving frost in places.

Friday:
After a chilly start, a mixture of sunshine and showers. These locally heavy with a risk of hail and thunder in the northeast, where they maybe wintry over high ground.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Mixed picture with spells of rain and strong winds heading northeast through Saturday; becoming widely showery by Monday. Temperatures nearer the seasonal average, perhaps briefly warm in the southeast.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.